What you should know about Dust Mites...

Are you sleeping with the enemy? House dust is one of the most strongly allergenic materials found indoors and is often heavily contaminated with the fecal pellets and cast skins of living, breathing House Dust Mites. In recent studies, dust mites have been determined a factor in 50 to 80 percent of asthmatics, as well as in countless cases of eczema, hay fever and other allergic ailments. House dust, when combined with the release of human body fluids through skin pores and mouth will create the perfect breeding ground for House Dust Mites... your mattress!
